WIND SONG.

Yester e'en I whispered,
You did not hear;
To-day I am mighty,
And now you fear,
For I am the wind
That huries along,
Would you but listen
You'd hear my song
As I sing at will Amidst the trees,
And the voice of the forest
Of tries to please
By whispering back—
And so if men
Would only listen
They'd hear my message,
Which is lost to th trees.

CAPITAL GOSSIP AND PROVINCIAL NEWS

Poultry Marketing Service.

Fifteen car loads of eggs, or about 225,000 dozen, have been handled by the Edmonton branch of the Provincial Government Poultry Marketing Service up to Nov. 15th, according to an announcement by Hon. John Hoadley. In the same period 167,000 pounds of live weight poultry have been received and marketed. Carload lots have been received from Provost, Berwyn, Monitor, Consort, Vermilion, Lethbridge and other places.

Following the results of last year's turkey marketing, when premium prices were obtained from the farmers concerned, the turkey marketing has assumed considerable proportions this year. At the recent killing at Bassano, under the auspices of the Dominion and Provincial Government Services, over 14,000 head were killed, and large numbers were also provided from Duchess, Cassils, and Bow Slope. Last week 2,000 head were shipped from Monitor.

Delegations.

Delegations which have met the Government during the past week, include one from the Women's Council, asking for extension of the mother's pensions, and other things, and the delegation from the Alberta Federation of Labor, asking certain changes in the Workmen's Compensation Act, The Mines Act, and other legislation.

Profit on Hogs.

A profit of over $1,200 on one carload of hogs was realized by Joseph Tesser, of Clairmont, near Grande Prairie, north of Edmonton, the past week. There were 84 hogs in the shipment, the average weight being 172 pounds and the top price being $9.50 per cwt.

Appreciate Service.

A fine appreciation of the services rendered by the Municipal Hospitals, in the re-organization of the Red Deer General Hospital, is given in the annual report of Mayor Collison, of that town. Mayor Collison pays a tribute to the assistance lent by Mr. Whiston, supervisor of Municipal Hospitals, in re-organizing the hospital, and states that it has now been brought up from an institution piled with debt, to the stage where it is on a paying basis.

Record Wheat Haul.

A man from Vulcan, Alberta, (Ralph Moorehouse), made a world's record in hauling wheat last week, when he negotiated the hauling of 1144 bush. of No. 1 wheat, loaded in eight large grain tanks, to which were attached 20 horses and 10 mules. Moorehouse drove this outfit 22 miles to market.

Quick Justice.

In a little more than two months after the brutal killing of Constable Steve Lawson, of the Alberta Provincial Police, at Coleman, on Sept. 21st, a jury in the Supreme Court at Calgary, convicted Emil Picaliello and Mrs. Lassandra of the murder, and both were sentenced to the death penalty. The Attorney-General's department spared no effort in the prosecution of the case, even arranging a special session of the court.

Stock Feeding Experiments.

A policy of feeding commercial steers under experiment at the various Provincial farms has been adopted this year by the Minister of Agriculture. The pure-bred herds have been reduced to some extent in order that there might be feed enough available to carry on these experiments.

It has been considered wise to make these experiments as simple as possible, and to use the feeds which are grown regularly on the ordinary farm. With this end in view the experiments have been outlined to try roughage during this season. A standard grain ration of oats and barley mixed will be used in every experiment. The roughages used are as follows:—Sunflower silage, green oat silage, corn silage, green oat hay, alfalfa, sweet clover and brome grass, rye hay, cut oat straw and cut corn stover. These feeds are being fed separately to certain lots of steers and in various mixtures to other lots, as hereunder outlined:—

Group 1. Sunflower silage and alfalfa hay, grain ration 1-3 oats and 2-3 barley.

Group 2. Corn silage and alfalfa hay, grain ration 1-3 oats and 2-3 barley.

Group 3. Alfalfa hay, grain ration 1-3 oats and 2-3 barley and rye, mixed.

Group 4. Rye hay, grain ration 1-3 oats and 2-3 barley.

Group 5. Brome grass, hay and silage, grain rations 2-3 barley and 1-3 oats.

Group 6. Cut hay and straw equal parts, grain ration 2-3 barley and 1-3 oats.

Group 7. Cut oat straw and silage, grain ration 2-3 barley and 1-3 oats.

Group 8. Cut oat straw with syrup, grain ration 2-3 barley and 1-3 oats.

Group 9. Cut oat straw, corn silage, grain ration 2-3 oats and 1-3 barley.

Group 10. Cut oat straw, sunflowers and 1-3 barley.

Group 11. Sweet clover, grain ration 2-3 barley and 1-3 oats.

Group 12. Greenfeed, grain ration 2-3 oats and 1-3 barley.

Group 13. Cut dry corn, grain ration 2-3 oats and 1-3 barley.

The steers for the experiments were purchased principally at the Calgary stock yards. They are divided into groups of five each. They are all two-year-old steers, averaging in weight about 1,000 pounds, and are Short-horns, Herefords and Angus grades.

All steers were deborned when bought. Feeding has been done entirely in the open with no shelter except a high board fence on the north and west sides. 100 steers are being used for the experiment. The different lots are located on the provincial farms at Raymond, Claresholm, Gleichen, Olds, Sedgwick and Athabasca. Trench silos are being used at five of these places and upright silos are being used at all places except Athabasca and Gleichen. The experiment should give some valuable information on the feed value of silage as compared with feeding dry feeds only. It should also show some interesting results in comparing corn, sunflower, green oat silage.

In addition to the above experiments one set of steers is being fed on cut grain ration, consisting of oats and barley. This latter is to determine the value of molasses for feeding to breeding stock for wintering purposes.

A lamb feeding experiment is being conducted at Gleichen. 85 lambs are being used. Straight oats ground is being used for grain ration. The object of the experiment is also to compare the values of different roughages for finishing lambs. There are five groups with 17 in each group. The following is an outline of the roughages being fed:—

Group 1. Alfalfa hay, mixed silage, grain rations, oats.

Group 2. Alfalfa hay, sunflower silage, grain ration, oats.

Group 3. Alfalfa hay, grain rations, oats.

Group 4. Cut oat straw and silage, grain rations, oats.

Survey of Liquor Conditions.

Most of the drug stores in the province are now giving strict observance to the liquor law, and the number of actual law-breakers is rapidly dwindling, according to a survey of conditions recently made by the staff of inspectors under the Commissioner of the Liquor Act. The December issue of the Liquor Act Bulletin, issued from the Commissioner's office, calls attention to several interesting matters, chiefly concerned with this survey.

Although the survey is not yet complete, the inspectors have reached all but a comparatively few of the smaller and more inaccessible places, and for all practical purposes, the facts gathered from the places surveyed may be taken as indicative of the rest. The work of the inspectors was more particularly concerned with the drug stores, billiard rooms and restaurants, but their inquiries were extended to include the general conditions obtaining in all communities visited with special reference to liquor laws. Much of the data gathered was for office and administrative purposes, but their investigations have been so thorough and painstaking, and their work has so completely covered the whole province from Medicine Hat, Coats and Coleman to Lloyminster, St. Paul des Metis, Athabasca and Beaver Lodge that their reports constitute the most comprehensive and reliable body of information that exists in connection with this much discussed problem. Of the facts of public interest referred to in the Bulletin, the following are a few:

Drug Stores. About 260 in the province; about 75 per cent. of the proprietors sympathetic to the law; about 25 not handling liquor; and the number falling into line of strict observance to the law steadily increasing. In fact the actual persistent law breakers are down to a very small number, probably not more than one in eight or ten. Some of these, however, are making a great deal of trouble.

Billiard Rooms. 414 licensed in province; about 60 per cent. quite reputable, the balance giving more or less trouble either through gambling, profanity, liquor or permitting minors. The nationality of proprietors was found to be about 75 per cent. British, the remainder being Norwegian, Ukrainian, Austrian, Polish and one or two each of about a dozen others.

Restaurants. Including dining-rooms, eating places of all kinds and soft drink bars, 2002 licensed and some still unlicensed in province, of which nearly 600 serve meals and sell soft drinks, and about 1100 purely soft drink bars, large and small. Taken altogether, from 65 to 70 per cent. are classified as satisfactory from the stand point of their attitude to liquor laws, some 35 per cent. of them not even handling 2 per cent. beer. In dining rooms and eating places about 62 per cent. do not handle legal beer, while this is even true of about 28 per cent. of the purely soft drink bars. Specially interesting is the nationality of those who feed the people of the province. British, 51 per cent. of the total; Chinese, 23 per cent.; Hebrew, Ukrainian and Greek, each about 4 per cent.; French, Italian, Russian, and Norwegian, each about 2 per cent.; Austrian, Swedish, Dane, German, Roumanian, Syrian, Japanese, Belgian, Dutch, Macedonian, Slav, Finlander, Bohemian, Serb, Swiss and Hawaiian, with a few of each constitute the remainder.

Extraordinary Cure.

A unique triumph of medical skill, one which creates a record in the matter of a cure, was registered at the Medical College of the University of Alberta the past week, when an 8-year-old girl from Vulcan, Alta., was brought back to life from a state of diabetic coma, from which, so far as is known, there had not previously been a recovery. This remarkable cure was effected by the use of insulin serum, manufactured by Dr. Collip, of the Medical Faculty of the University, and was the result of treatment by Dr. Collip and Dr. Heber Jamieson, of Edmonton. Dr. Collip last year took special research work in this connection at Toronto University, with Drs. Banting, Best and Macleod. He returned this year and concluded his work along this line at the Alberta University, with the result that he was able to effect the cure recorded. A similar cure was effected last week at New York with the serum manufactured at Toronto University. The Toronto and the Alberta Universities are the only two places in the world, so far as is known, where this serum is manufactured. The two cures effected have attracted the attention of medical science over the entire continent.

Date of Bye-Election.

Date of the bye-election in Calgary to fill the vacancy in the Provincial Legislature caused by the death of R. C. Edwards, Ind., has been fixed for January 15th, with nominations on January 8th.

Alberta's Triumph at Chicago.

Alberta has triumphed again at the International Grain and Livestock Shows at Chicago this year. In the hay and grain show four prizes were taken in wheat, thirteen in oats, two in barley, four in peas, one in rye, and one in alfalfa. The winnings constitute chiefly a triumph for registered seed, and also a justification for the efforts of the Department of Agriculture and University in encouraging the growth of such seed in the Province, and for the establishment of the new Seed Marketing Service of the Department of Agriculture, which will provide the means in the future not only of encouraging the development of pure seed over the province, but also of preserving the identity of Alberta seed in the world's markets. Alberta undoubtedly is destined to become the source of pure seed supply for many countries, as well as for a high quality of grain of all classes for all purposes and the establishment of the new Seed Marketing Service will tend to hasten this day.

At the Chicago Show, J. W. Biglands, of Lacombe, won 1st and grand champion in oats; T. W. Meldrum, of Raymond, won 2nd in wheat, Nick Taitenger, of Lacombe, won 1st in 2-rowed barley, Dr. Hill, of Lloydminster, won 1st and grand champion in peas, J. W. Lucas, Cayley, won 1st and grand champion in rye, and the Duke of Sutherland's farm at Brooks, won 2nd in alfalfa.

In the live stock classes the short-horn yearling, yearling (bred at the University of Alberta), won the short-horn special. This was bred with a University bull and a grade Short-horn cow. The John Clay special was won by the junior yearling, donated by Simon Downie, of Carstairs. The animal from the University that won the Short-horn special also won fifth in a class of 40 in the open class. The junior yearling Hereford from Hon. V. W. Smith's Kleskun Ranch, won 9th in a class of 29. The senior Short-horn calf donated by Wm. Sharp, of Lacombe, won 7th in a class of 25 in its class. The junior Short-horn yearling from J. G. Clark's farm, at Irma, won 4th in a class of 31. The junior yearling Galloway of R. A. Wallace, of High River, won 1st and championship of its class.

PEEVED FOR FIFTY YEARS.

The ultimate in pouting has been discovered in a little town in Vermont. A woman there became peevish fifty-two years ago and has kept to her bed ever since. In New York there are two brothers in business who differed over installing a telephone some twenty years ago and have not spoken to each other during all the ensuing years.

DESTRUCTIVE LETHBRIDGE FIRE

Eating a wide smouldering gap in Third Avenue S., between Sixth and Seventh streets, fire completely wiped out the P. Burns' company's main market, the De Wolfe shoe store, Kirby's restaurant and bakery, and Keith's confectionery store, at an early hour Monday morning. Before the blaze was gotten under control the destruction had reached more than $120,000 fairly well covered by insurance. The heroic, unflinching work of the city fire department, working in the bitter cold December air sharpened by a cutting wind from the southwest saved the ammonia plant of the P. Burns company, thus preventing an explosion that might have hurled the flames through Clarke and company's west wall and on down Third Avenue to other adjacent buildings.

The Losses

The losers are: The P. Burns company, main market and storage plant, estimated loss, building, $40,000; equipment and stock, $20,000. Well covered by insurance.

De Wolfe's shoe store, estimated loss, fixtures and stock, $15,000, about three-fourths covered.

Kirby's plant and stock, including stocks of flour, $18,000. Three-fourths covered.

Keith's candy kitchen, estimated loss, $3000. Some insurance.

David Brodie, San Francisco, building, $10,000, partly covered.

By eight o'clock the fire was pronounced by the chief under control, with a splendid stream flowing on the flames. By that hour the Burns building was gutted, and the immense stock of meats and poultry of all description destroyed.

Nothing is so bad that it couldn't be worse. The man whose wife waits up for him ought to be glad he wasn't Solomon, who had 1,000 of 'em.

THE EMPRESS THEATRE CURRENT ATTRACTIONS

MASTER WRITERS MAKE BIG FILM.

"Trumpet Island" is Story of Rare Power and Beauty.

Gouverneur Morris is famous for his tales of love and adventure—stirring, vivid and true to life.

George Randolph Chester is equally noted for his stories, such as the "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford" series—rapid moving, interest holding, breathless narratives.

It is no wonder, then, that when the two master writers combine forces, as they have in "Trumpet Island," the great special Vitaphone screen production, to be shown at the Empress Theatre on Wed.-Thurs., the result should be a dramatic offering of rare power and beauty.

The absorbing story was written by Gouverneur Morris, adapted for the screen by Rudolph de Cordova and edited by Mr. and Mrs. Chester. To make sure that the production would live up to the standards set by the writers, the direction was put into the capable hands of Tom Terriss, who has done nothing better than his big special, and the acting was taken care of by a wonderful company, headed by Marguerite de La Motte and Wallace MacDonald.

An airplane accident in a terrific thunderstorm, a fight for life and the girl on a cliff's edge are but two of the daring and thrilling episodes which feature the production. It is a picture which cannot well be missed.

SPEED MARKS GIBSON FILMS

Edward "Hoot" Gibson's next Universal starring vehicle at the Empress Theatre on Fri.-Sat., "The Lone Hand," combines fast action with slow, droll humor.

Ralph Cummins wrote the story especially for the star.

The main character of "The Lone Hand" is a thoroughbred cow-puncher, born and brought up on the ranch, entirely ignorant of the ways of people who go about with starched shirts, white collars and shoes unhampered by spurs. He decides to go upon a well-earned vacation and will hear of no other place but the most fashionable summer hotel within reach. He saves a girl in distress, outwits a band of crooks who try to steal her father's mine, and goes back to the ranch after his vacation for a rest.

Reaves Eason who directed "The Lone Hand," is considered one of the best directors of Westerns in the industry and guided some of Gibson's previous successes.

Cast in supporting roles are such well known players as Marjorie Daw, William Welsh, Helen Holmes, famous serial queen, Jack Pratt, Jim Corey, Hayden Stevenson and Robert Kortman.

ALL STAR CAST IN BIG SPECIAL FILM "TRUMPET ISLAND."

Every Effort Exerted to Make Production One of Greatest Ever Screened.

By Gouverneur Morris.

Love, unsuspected in the heart of either, drew the thoughts of Eve de Merincourt and Richard Bedell toward each other, though they were strangers. Love could not make them acquainted for they lived practically in different worlds. Their eyes met across distances, and strange, disturbing thoughts were aroused in the minds of each, but no word was spoken by one to the other. But Fate finally found a way in a most unusual place and manner.

The story is told in "Trumpet Island," a Vitaphone special production, which will be shown at the Empress Theatre on Wed.-Thurs. It was written by Gouverneur Morris and adapted for motion picture purposes by Rudolph de Cordova. Not content with even this select preparation for the great special production, Vitaphone dolph Chester, for their marvelous skill in creating intense situations, to edit the adaptation. Then, at last, the story was ready for visualization.

A special all-star cast was selected for the production of "Trumpet Island," and Tom Terriss was assigned to its direction. No expense in money, time and energy was spared in obtaining the extraordinary results achieved. Wallace MacDonald and Marguerite de La Motte were engaged to play the leads.

The wrecking of an airplane, bearing a bride and groom through a violent electric storm, is the supreme spectacular feature of "Trumpet Island." The realism of this is flawless and the effect tremendous. It is not until the shattered aeroplane falls on the lonely island, crashing into a tree, that Richard and Eve actually meet at last, and then the mind of the girl has become that of a child, holding only fragments and shadows of memories, as a result of the shock and strain she has undergone.

"Trumpet Island" is a story of wonderful appeal, wonderfully presented in picture form.

EXCEPTIONAL CAST IN LATEST MINTER FILM.

In "Her Winning Way," which will open a 2-day run next Monday, at the Empress Theatre, Mary Miles Minter, the star of the production, has excellent support.

Her leading man on this occasion will be that popular young French actor, Gaston Glass, who came to this country with Mme. Sarah Bernhardt, and later was seen to great advantage on the screen in "Humoresque" and in "The World and His Wife." To the role of Harold Hargrave, the novelist who has still something to learn about women, Mr. Glass brings the acting skill gained by years of study in the Conservatoire of Paris, and by constant experience since.

The rest of the cast includes Fred Goodwins, Helen Dunbar, Grace Morse Omar Whitehead, John Elliott and Carrie Clark Ward.

Douglas Doty is the author of the photoplay, which is based upon the play "Ann," by Lechmere Worrall, and the novel by Edgar Jepson. Joseph Henabery directed, with Faxon Dean at the camera, and Elmer Harris supervised production.

GET YOURSELF "PSYCHED."

If you don't sleep well, if your husband is unkind, if you dream you are tied on a railroad track, or if the muffs don't rise, go to a psycho-analyst.

Whatever you may believe about this latest fad in mental science, you can see its humorous angle brought out in "Her Winning Way," the Real-art picture starring lovely Mary Miles Minter, which will open a two-day run next Monday at the Empress Theatre, also Century 2-reel Comedy, "The Radio Hound."

Mrs. Ker Seymour's Recital

Despite the severe weather last Saturday a large number of parents and friends of the pupils of Mrs. Ker Seymour gathered in the Oddfellow's Hall. Mrs. J. W. Macdonald had charge of the programme, and gave a most interesting and instructive talk on "Mozart, the child musician," illustrating the subject with pictures and the representation by two little children of Mozart and his sister in the court costume of the period. This was very quaint and original. Four little girls sang sweetly and correctly a hymn composed by Mozart, and also imitated the chanting of the monks in the monastery where he first played the organ.

The visiting guests were Mrs. F. Morris, Mrs. J. T. Jones and Miss Griffin. Mrs. Morris sang with great taste and expression, and the two latter ladies, on playing the violin and the other the cello, excelled in interpretation and technique, handling their instruments with the greatest ease and freedom of the artist. Many thanks are due these four ladies, and the class much appreciates their help in the study of music. The following programme was given by the guests and pupils, the latter also doing their part well. Many of the classical illustrations were difficult, and do not appeal on first being heard, as lighter selections do, but are an education for future advancement.

INVENTOR OF TANK VICTIM OF INJUSTICE.

Who invented the tank? Three years ago a British Royal Commission on Awards to inventors sat for several weeks and after what was supposed to be a thorough investigation, gave the credit and cash to the extent of £15,000 to Sir William Tritton and Major Wilson for having produced the tank in a "concrete practical war shape," at the same time admitting that the original idea was that of Major General E. D. Swinton's. Now appears the London Morning Post with evidence to prove that the original idea was that of Lord Kitchener, and that it worked out by Captain Bentley, the engineer and transport expert, who was with Kitchener in South Africa and was greatly esteemed by the Secretary of War. Had he lived the probability is that Lord Kitchener would have taken no credit for the invention, but would have insisted that his friend, Bentley, should be given the honor and emoluments that the inventor was entitled to. But Kitchener is dead. So is Col. Fitz, his military secretary, the two men who knew most about the Bentley invention. The Post contends, however, that the files of the War Office contain sufficient evidence to substantiate Bentley's claim, which it is trying to have publicly acknowledged.

The Armored Car.

So far as the official account goes, the scheme was submitted by Winston Churchill, then at the Admiralty, to Mr. Asquith in January, 1915, the idea having been rejected by the army, according to Churchill, and then seized and developed by the navy. Three months earlier, however, we are informed that Captain Bentley, who had just returned to England to rejoin the army, was rung up on the telephone by Col. Fitzgerald, who said that Lord Kitchener desired him to go to the War Office at once. When he arrived, Kitchener said to him: "Downstairs in the quadrangle there's an armored car Woolwich has made for me. It's the result of the united brains of the navy and army experts. We want it for this trench fighting which they have begun in France. Go down, have a look at it, and then come back and tell me what you think about it." Five minutes later Captain Bentley returned and reported that the car was no good for the purpose, since it would be impossible to take it off the roads.

"My own opinion," said Kitchener, "Now, will you design me one of the right type? At once, please. It's urgent. Let me have it to-morrow."

Designed to Order.

Of course, Bentley agreed and left. In less than a fortnight he was sent

"HAD A NARROW ESCAPE"

"I never realized until a few months ago how risky it is to neglect a cold in the chest. I have always had such good health, that a cold either in the head or chest, while unpleasant, never gave me any worry. Outside an occasional cold, I had never known what it was to be laid up even for a day in all my life, until last December. One afternoon I got a chill and no matter how close I got to the stove, I couldn't seem to get warm. This chill was followed by a cold in my chest. As usual I neglected it and it kept getting worse and worse. Finally I had to go to bed and send for the doctor. His examination showed that I had pneumonia and a bad case at that. By careful nursing on the part of my husband, my children and some friends, I managed to pull through, but the doctor told me I had a narrow shave. And here's where my troubles began. While I was now out of danger, I was anything but well. I was still very weak from the effects of the pneumonia. Although I had lots of life and energy before my sickness, I was now worn out and tired all the time. I slept fairly well, more because I was exhausted. But my sleep didn't refresh me because, while I appeared to be asleep, I was conscious most of the time of what went on around me. Although all kinds of tempting dishes were prepared for me, I had no relish for food. This sickness had already undermined my health to such an extent that I was a living skeleton. I was getting discouraged as nothing I took seemed to do me any good. 'I wonder if Carnol wouldn't build you up,' a friend said one day. 'It did me a world of good. I was completely run down and you can see for yourself how well I look today. Why don't you try it?' Thanks to this friend's advice I am in perfect health again, as healthy and as full of life and vitality as I have ever been."

Carnol is sold by your druggist, and if you can conscientiously say, after you have tried it, that it hasn't done you any good, return the empty bottle to him and he will refund your money. 9-622 to Russia, and a year later went to German East Africa. When he returned to the western front it was in 1917, and the tanks had been in use for more than a year. Kitchener and Fitzgerald were dead, and Bentley discovered, to his dismay, that his name had never been mentioned in connection with the tanks, but that the army gossip credited the invention to others. He appealed to a friend in Parliament to obtain recognition, and when this failed, turned to the Government with no better success. In 1918 he communicated to the Tanks Award Committee about the only document in his possession bearing on his claim, which was an acknowledgment from Col. Fitzgerald of the design he had sent to Lord Kitchener. The committee replied that it was not giving prizes for mere suggestions.

In August, 1919, learning that an official history of the war was being prepared, he wrote to the Director of Historical Records, and received this answer: "I have already incorporated a note in the book to the effect that the application of caterpillar reaction to armored cars was put by you to Col. Fitzgerald in the month of October, 1914." When the Royal Commission was appointed to make awards for war inventions, Captain Bentley was invited to attend. But he was not called to testify. Then a day was set for hearing his testimony, but this fell on a Sunday, and because the commission did not meet he was not given an opportunity of stating his case. Then, through a solicitor, he lodged a formal claim, which was adjudged "unsuitable." Finally, he got the matter before the King in the form of a petition, but was informed that the Secretary of State was unable to advise His Majesty to grant his fiat. Now the Morning Post is taking up the fight, with what success remains to be seen.

WOMEN SMOKERS.

New York police have not been conspicuously successful in dealing with the more important crimes in the almost permanent crime wave that is a feature of life in that city, but occasionally they act with decision and swiftness in lesser crises. A short time ago a policeman saw a woman smoking a cigarette on the street. He promptly knocked it out of her hand and told her that she "couldn't pull none of that 'rough stuff' on his beat. The woman complained of this uncivil treatment, and demanded at police headquarters to know by what authority she had been molested. A search of the statutes showed that there was no specific prohibition of her act, and she departed announcing that she would smoke if she liked. The incident has been widely discussed and practically all chiefs of police agree that there is no law forbidding women to smoke in public, except in Zion City, where a by-law prohibits anybody from smoking. We rather suspect that if the offence had been committed in Toronto the police would have found sanction for their act in the law against disorderly conduct. It is quite obvious that what would not be disorderly conduct in a man might be disorderly conduct in a woman, or conduct that might lead to disorder which, from the point of view of the police, amounts to much the same thing. A man or woman dressed in such a conspicuous manner as to draw a crowd would be in danger of arrest although the disorderly conduct might be on the part of the members of the crowd. Experience has taught the average citizen that the policeman, as a rule, knows more law than he does, and that for general purposes he is the dispenser of law as well as the preserver of order on his beat. However, the action of the New York officer has resulted in millions of women learning something that they did not know before—namely, that they are within their legal rights in smoking on the street. It is hardly likely that many of them will take advantage of this newly discovered liberty. The average woman who enjoys a cigarette does not like to make herself conspicuous any more than the average woman who does not smoke. We should infer that a woman who smokes on the street does not do so because of her fondness for a cigarette but because she is itching to attract attention. It may be that in time the sight of women smoking in public will become common. There is no question of morality involved in the act; it is merely a question of taste, and we all know how tastes vary from year to year from one degree of latitude to another. It seems probable that smoking among women is on the increase. The average flapper is suspected of the practice. The war is supposed to have spread the fashion. A few hotels hold out against it, but many more have ceased to resist, and few people are so unsophisticated now as to be conscious of a shock when they see a woman smoking. It is rather curious that when liquor was served in hotels a woman with her escort might drink without attracting attention, but when she lit a cigarette she became immediately an object of scrutiny. In a great many cases, as in the case of the New York lady, this was the object sought rather than the enjoyment of the smoke.

HEREDITY IS STRONGER THAN ENVIRONMENT.

It is a saddening fact commented upon by Dr. Henry Dwight Chapin in the New York Sun that about half the small babies cared for in the state institutions provided for motherless infants die every year. They are given the best medical attendance; their diet is scientifically planned and perhaps they get more skilled attention than the babies in ordinary homes, yet their death rate is greater. The truth is that babies were not intended to be brought up in any institution however scientific. A baby needs a home and its own mother just as much as a home and mother need a baby. A realization of this fact is causing various charitable institutions in the U.S. to make increasing efforts to provide homeless children with childless homes. One of these institutions, operated by Mrs. Chapin, has provided four hundred babies with such homes in the past twelve years.

Home Makes the Child.

Dr. Chapin reports that the results of adoption have been good; about the same percentage of cases as occur in normal families. There are brilliant children, mediocre children and stupid children offered for adoption in about the proportion that there are brilliant, mediocre and stupid children born into private homes. That is to say the average childless couple have about the same chance of bringing up a child that will later be a comfort and credit to them if they wisely adopt a child as though one had been born to them. Dr. Chapin is not so strong a believer in heredity as many of his professional brethren. He admits that it is the fear that a child will inherit undesirable qualities which cannot be overcome by environment that makes many homes go childless and he is a staunch contender for the greater importance of environment. He admits that while from a strictly biological point of view heredity may appear to be the more important influence, yet in the scheme of evolution the higher the animal the more important and influential become nurture and environment.

The Plastic Years.

That is to say kind treatment under domestic conditions may have little effect upon the nature of a wolf, but it has a tremendous influence upon a dog, and the principle of heredity does not apply like anything to the same degree with a colt and a baby. The reason is that the long period of growth in the young of the human race—about twenty years—is a time of extreme plasticity when the career of the individual is no longer predetermined by the career of its ancestors. This is especially true during the earliest years as at this time imitation and suggestion play leading parts. Their influence is of preponderating importance in moulding the opening life. The child exhibits the elemental forces and instincts; as the emotions are developed in the race before the reason so is it with children. They can be moved by their sympathies long before they can be influenced by their intellect. Love is a surer guide for them than reason.

Adoption is Safe.

these facts—often overlooked—it is safe to take a child of healthy physique and rely upon proper training to obtain good results. The children of thieves, drunkards and cranks often turn out badly not so much because of birth but from living in the company and with the example of degenerates. I believe that many individual developments attributed to heredity are of ten, in the last analysis, really due to environment. If one wishes to adopt a child, first be sure it is without constitutional taint—then good home surroundings will do the rest. You may be pretty sure this will afford a good gambling chance for success. It may be of interest to inquire who wish to adopt children? What is the underlying motive? Undoubtedly the most frequent call comes from married people who, after a certain length of time find that children are not coming to them. They feel a certain lack in the home that nothing but a child will fill. After learning that some other family has been made happy by adopting a little one they soon decide to make a trial on their own account.

It is often the case that there is already a child in the home and the parents do not wish it to grow up alone, and seek to provide a companion by the process of adoption. However, we believe that in such circumstances the experiment is less likely to prosper since the newcomer might be expected, not unnaturally, to get less attention and devotion than the other. Dr. Chapin says that experiments of adoption have been carried out successfully in the case of well-to-do spinsters who frequently have highly developed maternal instincts. As a rule it is better to take children for adoption before the age of four, for then they will never recognize any other parents or surroundings. It is always wise to tell a child at a certain age of its adoption, because otherwise tragic circumstances might develop. They should be told that they were especially chosen for this care and affection and may be proud rather than saddened when they learn the truth. He tells the story of one child who was taunted with the fact of his adoption by a playmate and who retorted, "My parents chose me, but yours had to take what they got."

CAUGHT THE IDEA ALL RIGHT.

A little girl went to church with a neighbor and on her return home her father asked her if she liked the sermon.

"Yup," she replied.

"What was the text?" he asked.

"Don't be scared; you'll get the quit," she promptly replied.

After much pondering over her answer the father called up the minister on the phone and asked what his text had been.

"Be not afraid, I will send you the Comforter," replied the minister.

"Did the audience applaud?"

"Applaud. They made about as much noise as a rubber heel on a feather mattress."

WHAT BOLSHIEVISM HAS DONE FOR RUSSIA.

Communist activities planned or threatened in America, England, Ireland and elsewhere give interest to a recent history of that movement in Russia, the facts of which are drawn from edicts of the Soviet government. These show that Lenin's first and sole idea was to put the Marxian theories of communism in force, and that he seemingly believed sincerely that he could thus create a prosperous and happy state. He began by carrying them out to the letter, says the Rochester Post-Express. He completely socialized, as far as edicts could do so, production, distribution and consumption of wealth. He took over to the state land, implements, factories and every other form of property. Private ownership, industry for profit, money was declared superfluous and deliberately debased beyond usefulness. The land was to be worked in common and its products distributed by the government. Factories were put in the hands of groups of workers receiving equal pay; and to accomplish all this, the owners of land and property and the managers and experts in industry were exiled or killed. In fine, the communistic theory, as developed by Marx, the basis of all socialistic schemes, was put into full effect under the most favorable conditions which ever existed, or ever will exist, as far as can be seen.

Utter Failure.

The result as shown by successive edicts was utter failure along every line. The peasants would not work the land unless the fruits of their labor were their own. Then the land was given to them and they were told to keep what they needed of its products and hand the surplus over to the state. They kept all they raised. There was no surplus, for they would not work to produce a pound of anything in excess of their needs. The country starved. One by one every innovation was abandoned. Private property in land was re-established, and the peasants produced and sold as they used to, and paid taxes as in other lands. It was the same in industry. Production under group management fell off and costs increased to such an alarming extent that the theory of equality was given up. All the features of the capitalistic system came back—piece work, bonuses, overtime, penalties for non-work and the like. But this did not improve conditions much. The workers had not brains enough to run their factories and loafed on their jobs. Then the order was issued: "No more equality; no more liberty; workers shall now be militarized."

Population Vanishes.

All were compelled to work; but production still slumped to 10, 4 and even 1 per cent. of what it was before the revolution. The workers did not produce enough to keep them alive. Malingering, corruption, theft on a gigantic scale became the order of the day; and finally the working population vanished by wholesale and a total collapse of industry ensued. We need not review the monetary changes further than to say that by the first of this year 18 trillions of paper roubles had been issued. The population of Russia had fallen from 180 to 130 millions. The necessities of life were unobtainable. The only equality attained, as the Italian socialistic committee of inquiry stated, was an equality of universal misery. All the cherished doctrines were one by one had utterly broken down. Every feature of the old capitalistic system has been reintroduced; and Lenin, to save his face, makes the childish crawl out that capitalism must come back, show the workers how to work, and be converted to socialism.

An Unpardonable Collapse.

History shows no other such complete collapse of a theory of government as this, and the reason is obvious. Human nature—all the instincts of mankind—rejected it, refused to live under it, and with reason, for it is inconsistent with the evolutionary scheme in force upon our planet. It is not the creative plan for running the world. On its face it seems workable; shallow reasoners extol it, and their arguments convince others who see no more deeply than they. Nor need we doubt that agitators with minds enough to see its fallacies and dangers urge its adoption as a step towards the disorganization of society by which they aim to rise to power. But no one else has anything to hope for through communism, except bitter disillusionment, confusion, privation and the loss of almost everything which gives value to life.

A Horrifying Failure.

In reading the lucubrations of parlor socialists, communists, Bolsheviks of the Rose Pastor Stokes brand, or when tempted to listen for a moment claims against what he calls the capitalistic system, it is well to bear ever in mind that the opposing theory has been tried on a national scale and untried, and has proved such a grotesque derelict the most favorable possible condition and horrifying failure that even the Emma Goldmans of the cult were brought to their senses by their experiences under it, luring a few short weeks.

The present cold snap is what lovers of ice sports have been wishing for. Skating, curling and hockey enthusiasts are now in their element, and to mention the word "Chinook" is taboo.

A scratch game of curling was played on Wednesday afternoon between A. McDonald's rink and R. W. Stewart's, in which the latter rink won. The ice is in first-class condition.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Gautier and young son, of Ardenville, left the cold weather behind them Tuesday morning, when they left on their trip to Sunny California. Mr. and Mrs. Gautier will be away all winter visiting friends and relatives.

A pleasant evening was spent last Friday, when Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Price entertained at Five Hundred in honor of Mrs. G. B. Johnson and Mrs. C. Shaver. Mrs. Johnson and E. H. Pittard won the two first prizes for the highest score, while Mrs. Shaver and F. A. Adams were presented with the consolations.

The members of Mountain View Lodge, No. 4, I. O. O. F., held another of their popular whist drives and dance in their lodge room, Wednesday evening. There were sixteen tables in all at which progressive whist was played. Mrs. Mead won the ladies' 1st, while H. Benson won the gentlemen's 1st. The consolations went to Mrs. H. Winter and J. E. McNab. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the games, when dancing was indulged in for a couple of hours.

PROF. M. S. CROSSE

448 Logan Avenue WINNIPEG, MAN.

A SMART LAD.

He was an ingenious small boy.
"Mother," he said on one occasion,
"will you wash my face?"
"Why, Hugh, can't you do that?"
"Yes, mother, I can, but I'll have to wet my hands, and they don't need it."
—Harper's Magazine.

"Even a policeman can't arrest the flight of time," said the funny man.
"Oh, I don't know," replied the matter-of-fact person. "Only this morning I saw a policeman enter a side door and stop a few minutes."

The best day for doing your best is the one that comes seven times a week.

Somehow the average boy lacks a mania for acquiring good-conduct marks at school.

DELAY IN RATIFYING WASH- INGTON TREATY DISAPPOINTING.

London, Dec. 13.—Prime Minister Bonar Law, told the House of Commons to-day that Great Britain could not regard without grave disappointment the continued delay in ratification of the Washington naval treaty by two of the signatory powers,
France and Italy.

His declaration was in answer to a question as to the government's view regarding the period within which such ratifications should take place in order to give effect to the treaty and whether non-ratification by one of the signatories would be regarded by Great Britain as involving abandonment of the treaty.

Mr. Bonar Law said that neither Great Britain, nor so far as he was aware, the United States, had set a time limit for ratification. regarding the latter part of the question, he thought it premature to consider Great Britain's action would be in a hypothetical situation which he sincerely hoped would never occur.

A Merry Xmas

AND HAPPY NEW YEAR

Now is the time of year when everyone becomes infected with the Christmas spirit of giving, when it is more pleasant to give than to receive, although the presents from dear ones and friends sends the "blood" coursing through your veins and heart. Be the gift ever so small, it is the spirit in which it is given.

THE GROCERY DEPARTMENT

Is making great preparations. The fruits for plum puddings, cakes or dessert, are appetisingly fresh. Every green vegetable grown is duplicated in candy. The list of preserved fruits is a long one. Crystallized Pineapple Cherries, Crackers, Xmas Stockings, Mince Meat and Cider, &c.

for a family in want. The best way is to give something useful. Buy a be appreciated by a girl with a threadbare coat. Prices will be lower than for the past five years.
